Attention Flower Lovers.

The ladies of West Market street church Aid Society would announce to the public, especially to all lovers of flowers, that they have completed their arrangements for another chrysanthemum show next fall. They believe this will be a welcome announcement to see who remember the beautiful display of last fall; and they feel sure that the co-operation of those interested in floriculture they can surpass in beauty and variety that exhibition.

While the chrysanthemum will be the principal feature of the exhibition they have decided to add variety and interest by offering valuable prizes for begonias, dahlias, ornamental plants, and geraniums; and in cut flowers prizes will be offered for chrysanthemums, roses, dahlias, and pansies.

Through the liberality of the business men of Greensboro and vicinity they are enabled to offer about one hundred dollars worth of prizes consisting of ornamental and useful household articles, articles of dress, and valuable collections of palms, evergreens, flowering shrubs, roses, etc.

For printed lists of prizes and for any other information in regard to chrysanthemum show apply to any member of the committee.

THE FIGHT AT CIENFUEGOS.

Forts Destroyed And City Burned By American Ships.

TERRIBLE LOSS OF SPANIARDS.

The American Loss Was Slight.

Schley Will Will Report at Charleston. Is He Bound for Cuba.

By wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Key West, May 14, 11:40 a. m.—The gunboat Windom arrived here this morning from Cienfuegos bringing a detailed account of the bombardment of that place. The reports state that the forts were razed by the American gunboats and the city fired by the explosion of shells. The Spanish loss is estimated at four hundred. Two more Americans lost their lives. They were killed while cutting the cable. Commander Washburn and Lieutenant Maynard, of the gunboat Nashville, were slightly injured.

During the second bombardment of Cienfuegos one man was killed and six wounded on board the cruiser Marblehead.

KILLED BY A SENTRY.

Key West, May 14—A negro boy while chasing a stray mule last night was shot by a sentry and mortally wounded. The sentry mistook the boy for a Spanish spy.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

The following is a partial list of the men killed and wounded during the engagement at Cienfuegos: On the cruiser Marblehead John Reagan was killed and two others were wounded. John Davis, of New York; John J. Doran, of Fall River, Mass.; Robert Boltz, of Carteret county, N. C.; Earnest Sutzanick, Herman W. Hackmaster, and Harry Hendricksen were all severely, if not seriously, wounded. Many other men of the fleet received slight wounds.

The Yankees were found packed into small boats when the masked batteries opened fire and were consequently powerless to return the fire of the Spaniards. The Marblehead, Nashville and Windom threw shells into the bushes but were unable to successfully locate the batteries of the Spaniards who were using smokeless powder.

CABLE CUT.

The Americans began the search for the cable under a frightful fire from the shore and found the cable and succeeded in cutting it. The Spaniards attempted to stop the search by using machine guns. One American was shot three times through the chest and head and yet he is living. Lieutenant Winslow of the Nashville lost three fingers in the fight. Robert Boltz, a North Carolinian, was dying when the Windom left. Harry Hendricksen was also in a dying condition. A shot struck Capt. Maynard to the floor and continuing passed through the shoulder of Ensign S. Parrish. The forts were completely annihilated by the bombardment.

THE SECOND BOMBARDMENT.

Key West, May 14—A dispatch boat has just arrived and with it comes the report of the second bombardment of Cardenas. The raking and terrible fire from the guns of the Yankee ships destroyed the forts and the masked batteries and the shells from the American gunboats burned the city. One hundred and thirteen dead Spaniards were found near the batteries and it is known that three hundred Spaniards perished in the flames when the city was burned.

Meantime the dear heathen shows no diminution in his relish of fricasee American missionary.

And the sun in heaven is yellow—the sun which is to this earth what the Journal is to American journalism.—New York Journal.

Humph!

A Philadelphia baker wishes to be given the exclusive privilege of selling pies to the army of invasion. He might be attached to Wamaker's brigade.

Chairman Fountain is endeavoring to secure reduced railroad rates to the state convention.—The Caucasian.

What! Asking favors of the octopus? What horrible nightmare is this?

The next few weeks will be full of events. Things will happen. From out the soil of a peaceful people—too peaceful some have thought—armed men have sprung as if by magic. Swiftly, methodically, indomitably, in the American fashion, preparations have been made for doing what must be done, and will be.

What has become of that tender and succulent soul, he of the joyous name, the Honorable Hallelujah Ayer? Perchance he is swinging in a shaded hammock with a volume of spring verse or pensively gazing into the empyrean. For one whole week the hearts of men have been gladdened by no word of his. How, oh how is it with the Honorable Hallelujah?

The movement to erect a monument to Ensign Bagley is most commendable. It will not be alone a reminder of him but will stand for that strong young American manhood which found in him so glorious an exemplar, for all time eloquent to inspire the living with the deathless heroism of the dead. In sorrow the old state bows her head to add one more name to the roster of her heroes for whom the gates of the morning have swung wide.

Indications are that the day of reckoning with Spain is not far distant. What Sampson did to San Juan he can also do to Havana. The fighting blood of the American people is being slowly warmed. The tragedy at Cardenas is another score to settle. It does not matter in the least where Spain's Cape Verde squadron is nor where her whole navy is nor her, army nor any army she can raise. The American has put his hand to this thing and he will carry it through. The defenses of Havana will be reduced to powder, the Spanish army will be killed or captured and the last vestige of Spanish power will be swept from the western seas. Spain has been at once a virago and a cut-throat among the nations. The only pity of the whole business is that Spain cannot be wiped off the map as a nation and turned into a dependency of some civilized government.

SATURDAY'S LITERARY CHAT.

[All books and magazines mentioned below may be had at Wharton's book store.]

"The Solution of the Race Problem" is the title of a thoughtful little volume by Mr. E. S. Simmons, of the Washington, N. C., bar. A great deal has been written and said in the past twenty years about the race problem but Mr. Simmons has succeeded in saying a great deal that is new, for all that. It is far and away the most original discussion of the question we have seen. The author points out clearly that the colored race can never reach the full measure of its possible development under present conditions. The argument for colonization is strong, clear and in many respects irrefutable. The style is somewhat irregular—the style of a speaker rather than a writer perhaps. Nevertheless it is a book which should be read by every thoughtful southerner. It is written from a point of view entirely friendly to the negro—a point of view by the way common to nearly all intelligent southerners, despite some opinions to the contrary. The author's estimate of the dangers that lie ahead if the two races continue to dwell together we cannot accept. That there are dangers, however, is undeniable. The book may be had by sending $1.00 to Mr. E. S. Simmons, Washington, N. C., or to Edwards & Broughton, Raleigh, N. C.

Of Mrs. Ritchie's initial introduction to the new edition of Thackeray's works Austin Dobson remarks:

Seduced by the charm of Mrs. Ritchie's periods we had reached the last line of her introduction to "Vanity Fair" before we noticed the absence of two characteristic anecdotes one being that relating to the finding of the title; the other—first told, we believe, by Mr. James Hannay—that which records the writer's pardonable exultation when, in Chapter XVIII, the unhappy Rebecca "admires" her husband, "strong, brave and victorious" over Lord Steyne. "When I wrote the sentence I slapped my flat on the table," said "that is a touch of genius!" These things are for all time, and will bear repetition; but in default of them we have many interesting details respecting the progress and history of the book. We have a picture, by Mr. Eyre Crowe, of 13 Young street, Kensington, where it was written; we have a vision of "the most charming, dazzling little lady dressed in black" who was supposed to be the prototype of Becky, and we are told who sat for Major Dobbin. We are shown the house full of those tiny boxwood blocks and etching plates which the author loved perhaps even better than his "faithful old Gold Pen;" and we have sketches of Amelia waiting in Russell Square for little Gregory, and of the three Miss Osbornes. Then there is the chronicle of the book itself, its slow progress towards popularity and purchasers ("Vanity Fair" does everything but pay!), the incidents and accidents of its composition. "Towards the end of the month," says one letter, "I get so nervous that I don't speak to anybody scarcely, and once actually got up in the middle of the night and came down and wrote in my night-chime; but that don't happen often, and I own that I had a nap after that day." Other passages from his correspondence have a graver purport. "What I want (he writes) is to make a set of people living without God in the world (only that is a cant phrase), greedy, pompous men, perfectly satisfied for the most part; and at ease about their superior virtue. Dobbin and poor Briggs are the only two people with real humility as yet." Amelia's husband is a "scoundrel!" Amelia is selfish, but she is to be purified by love and sorrow. Then comes the end, when he has worked so hard that he can hardly hold a pen and say "God bless my dearest old mother."

English Pilot For Dewey.

London, May 13.—The Hong Kong correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "The Spaniards at Manila are incensed against the British because it is believed that the Esmeralda piloted the Americans into the bay." It is feared that the Spanish soldiers, who are unpaid, will attack the British factories. "The Spaniards at Manila are in a position to give the Americans a deal of trouble. There are 25,000 Spanish troops in the garrison and 100,000 volunteers enrolled. Scores of coasting steamers are imprisoned on the River Pasig, which is blockaded at the mouth by some sunken schooner."

The Grandest Remedy

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for coughs, colds and consumption. It doesn't fail. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

THE TWO FLEETS.

Vessels Composing Sampson's Fleet and Cape Verde Squadron.

An engagement between the fleet of Admiral Sampson, now at San Juan, and the Cape Verde squadron of the Spaniards has been predicted by many and the date has been fixed for this afternoon or tomorrow. The Cape Verde fleet was Thursday afternoon sighted off the coast of Martinique sailing northward, apparently in the direction of Cuba. The average rate of speed of the fleet is fourteen knots an hour and at this rate they will make the trip to Puerto Rico in less than two days and were expected to arrive at San Juan this morning.

Admiral Sampson's fleet is hampered by deficient speed and a small supply of coal on the monitors, while the Spaniards have taken on a large supply of coal at St. Pierre and are swifter than the Americans. The Americans counterbalance these shortcomings by superior skill in the handling of their ships and guns, as the crew of only one Spanish ship has had any target practice.

The Cape Verde Fleet is composed of the following vessels:

Four first-class cruisers: Vizcaya, Almirante Oquendo, Infanta Maria Teresa and Cristobal Colon and three torpedo boat destroyers: The Terror, Furor and Pluton.

It is problematical what vessels will compose the attacking fleet of the Americans as Admiral Sampson may be compelled to leave some of the monitors at San Juan to hold that port. His fleet is composed of the following vessels:

Two first-class battleships: The Iowa and Indiana, one armored cruiser: the New York (flagship), two unarmored steel cruisers: the Detroit and Montgomery, two double turret monitors: the Terror and Amphitrite and the dispatch schooner Mayflower.

So Tired! So Tired!

Chronic Dyspepsia!
For ten years I had been a severe sufferer from chronic dyspepsia, which was pronounced incurable. I was completely run down, and in the summer season was not able to do anything and spent a great part of the time lying down. I could not touch meat of any kind, or any solid food whatever, as I could not digest it at all and had to live on crackers and light diet. I was very nervous, would have severe nervous spells, and could not get any natural sleep, I was so restless. I suffered all the time from chronic dysentery, which kept me weakened down. That was my condition when I determined as a last resort to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I had tried so many treatments and so many patent medicines without benefit that I had no faith in anything and had almost made up my mind not to try another thing, when Mrs. Person came to my house last April and induced me to try her Remedy. I bought a dozen bottles. Felt no relief whatever until I was on the fourth bottle, when I knew I was getting better. I became stronger, got so I could sleep well and there was no necessity for me to lie down in the day time. I took twenty-two bottles before I stopped. My digestion is now perfect, and I can eat meat, vegetables, and anything else I want, and as much as I want. When I commenced the Remedy I weighed 98 pounds, now I weigh 116 pounds. Dysentery perfectly cured, and it is all owing to Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. It is everything claimed for it.

CAPTAIN SCHENCK DISAPPOINTED

The Burlington Company Kept Punct Faith.

Captain Simpson Schenck returned from Raleigh yesterday much disappointed. On his previous trip he had arranged, as stated in these columns, to take a squad of thirty men to Raleigh to combine with Capt. Holt's Burlington company which was short. Captain Holt was to wait until noon today for the arrival of the Greensboro boys. When the companies were combined the offices were to be divided. The adjutant general was cognizant of the arrangement and had agreed to it. On that basis Capt. Schenck returned from Raleigh and proceeded to raise his quota of men. He had secured more than enough and arranged to take them to Raleigh today. Yesterday he received a telegram from Capt. Holt stating that he had already combined with the Washington company. Capt. Schenck at once left for Raleigh but found it impossible to make definite arrangements to have his squad accepted. However there is a possibility that he may be able to do so still. Capt. Schenck and others of the company gave up good positions to enlist and Capt. Schenck went to considerable expense to make up his squad. The turn affairs have taken is naturally very annoying to them and it is only fair to say that Capt. Schenck is not to blame.

Off to Raleigh.

Bogart's excursion to Raleigh left this morning at 8:05 from the C. F. & Y. V. depot with about 300 on board. It was an orderly and good natured crowd and under the excellent management of Mr. Bogart will spend a delightful day in Raleigh and Camp Grimes. A number of friends sent boxes and baskets of good things to the boys in camp.

Some New Points About Dry Goods.

We think it a great mistake to assume that the people are not competent to judge of quality; for we have found the greater portion competent far more than they are given credit for, and are more astute in judgment than sellers often imagine.

But the safest and best plan to acquire a knowledge of quality in merchandise of all kinds is to settle upon some house, the utterances of which you have found to be trustworthy, and study its merchandise and its statements thereabout.

Knowing how far our influence has reached in so short a space of time in this regard, we can point to the education we have given the people in quality. We began our new business by providing quality, making it an object lesson. We tell the truth about quality; honest words about honest facts. We shall always maintain quality, showing that good merchandise is what the people want, what they expect, what they appreciate and what they will buy.

This is the policy we have laid down for this new business, to educate the people to tell quality; to tell it themselves and to advise others; and this season when there is, possibly, a stronger desire than ever to keep the expenses of living down to the lowest minimum, we see the fruits of our zealous endeavors more than compensative, for our new business is constantly increasing along the lines of valid values and vigorous bargain selling.

EDITORIAL.

We have had the cool wet spell in May. We may now expect the summer season to begin shortly, and to continue without interruption.

We do not think there is any reason for dreading the warm weather. There are a great many enjoyments peculiar to the spring and summer, without which life would be exceedingly monotonous. Picnics will soon be on hand.

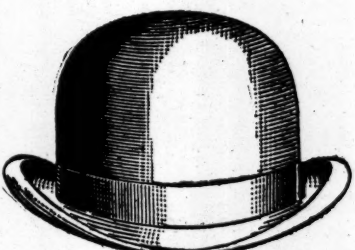

By the way, have you secured a BICYCLE? The roads will soon be in fine condition for riding. Comfort, pleasure and health demand that you take advantage of the low prices which we are now offering, and supply yourself with a wheel. The Crawford has made a record of which any wheel might well be proud. The price is exceedingly low.

If you wish an Ice Cream Freezer, a refrigerator, or any other summer specialties, do not forget that we are Headquarters.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

The above picture is very suggestive. What is more pleasant on the evening of a warm day, than to spray your grass and flowers; and if you should accidentally get the hose turned in the wrong direction, the victim will not suffer so keenly as this would indicate.
